

Big Shot Flower Daisies

What you will need:

- Big Shot
- Flower Daisies #2 Die (114520)
- 1-1/4" Punch
- Boho Flowers Punch
- Two-way Glue Pen
- Crop-A-Dile
- Assorted card stock
- Ribbon

Project Instructions

First for the tags, I used two of each of the daisies and glued them together. What I discovered when doing this is that if you press in the middle, it gives it more dimension. LOVE it!

Alternate

Now, as if THAT wasn't enough, I decided to make some flowers that I can put on the table. What I did this time was use 4 daisies of each size, glued them together as before, but this time, I used my bone folder to curl the petals. Here's what I came up with:

Same Technique except used different card stock and curled the ends**

Here's a close-up of the flowers.

Do you have an example of what has worked for you lately?

[JS] : I've started a series called "Over the Top" which are over the top cards such as a Diorama Card Class, a Stairstep Card Class, a Spiral Card Class. These have worked well

CPP: Do you have an example of what hasn't worked for you?

[JS] : Believe it or not, sharing of product. I offered paper shares, ribbon shares, embellishment shares & marker clubs. I overwhelmed my customers by offering everything! My suggestion is not to offer everything, just one or two. Much better response.

CPP: What is your biggest challenge and how are you working to overcome it?

[JS] : Time! I have so many ideas of things I want to do, however, time is a factor. I tend to over commit myself and I've had to really work on it this year. I'm not participating in every single thing that comes up like I have in the past, but rather focusing on what I know will work for me. This gives me more time to spend at home or visiting our family and friends.

CPP: What have you done to retain your customers?

[JS] : Keep in contact with them. I send out a couple of emails a month (thanks to Debbie's services). That has really helped.

CPP: What have you done to retain your downline?

[JS] : I send them emails, host swaps, have meetings when possible. I'm always a phone call or email away to help them whenever they need me and I try to get them an answer as quickly as I can.

CPP: Do you have any organizational tips?

[JS] : I keep all of my cardstock in our paperholders organized by color family in the order that they are in the catalog. that way, when I'm placing an order, I can use that as a guide and quickly see what I need.

CPP: Any tips regarding the project you are sharing?

[JS] : It's pretty easy. Just use lots of adhesive so it doesn't fall apart. I suggest glue dots.

CPP: What product is your biggest seller?

[JS] : Stamp sets and punches.

CPP: Where do you find inspiration?

[JS] : Everywhere. I'll see a color combo that I like and write the colors down. Look around, you can find inspiration everywhere if you look for it.

CPP: What is your favorite part of the Stampin' Up! Website?

[JS] : Stampers Showcase. I love it when one of my friends has a card up there.

CPP: Anything else you would like to share?

[JS] : Just to keep at it. While times are tough and folks aren't spending near as much as they were in the past, things will turn around. Becoming a Stampin' Up! Demo is one of the best things I've ever done. I truly do love my job and the friendships I've made are priceless!
