

TIP: reSmile Your Cards

You make beautiful cards - don't let them get thrown out - recycle and share!

Pause for a moment. Think about how you felt the last time you opened your mailbox and found an envelope that you just knew was a handmade card. Did you get that jolt of excitement and wonder even before you opened the card?

That's how I feel when I see that "definitely-not-a-bill" envelope in my mailbox.

Read on to learn how you can reSmile your cards, share the joy, and get the word out about your creative hobby or business.

STEP ONE

Do you hate the thought of someone throwing your handmade card in the trash or recycle?

Make it stop! Your card has the potential to brighten someone's day - with reSmile!

reSmile has a range of sticky notes that are specially designed with you in mind.

STEP TWO

Each page has simple graphics and instructions so your recipient knows exactly how to re-use your card.

Now your friend can share your card with another friend, which makes you look like the hippest crafty person around!

Place a couple reSmile sticky notes in your card and a little instruction sheet.

STEP THREE

Another option is to place a couple reSmile sticky notes in a thank you card along with a reSmile appreciation note.

Once they lucky recipient has enjoyed your card they can tear off and keep your note and write their own on the next sheet before sending the card on.

STEP FOUR

To make it easy to share you can place an address sheet on a Whisper White Medium Envelope and place it and the card into a Clear Medium Envelope.

This way your card is shown off on the front and there is an extra envelope for sending the card on already included.

This envelope closes on the end so it may require additional postage.

STEP FIVE

If you would rather use a Whisper White, Very Vanilla or Crumb Cake Medium Envelope that doesn't need additional postage you can fold an extra envelope in half and put it in an envelope with your card.

STEP SIX

For demonstrators and business owners you can get personalized reSmile notes with your contact info, website, etc. and other business supplies like this fun wish list.
